

1 St. Alexander's Church, built in a late Gothic style between 1450 and 1490, is one of the most beautiful hall churches in southwest Germany. In 2005, it received the last remaining three-manual Voigt organ in the world, built in 1868. The Concordia Schiller Bell in the tower was a present from the German residents of Moscow for Schiller's 100th birthday. Open daily 9am-6pm March-Oct. (except during a few rehearsal times), guided tours for groups and children, Tel. +49 (0)7144/898013, www.alexanderkirche-marbach.de, www.fuehrungen-alexanderkirche.de (Am alten Markt).

2 The former Poorhouse was built in 1611 (Am alten Markt 6).

3 The former Tannery from 1578 is the oldest building to have been completely preserved (Am alten Markt 2).

4 The Gasthaus Goldener Löwe was where Schiller's mother, Elisabetha Dorothea Kodweiß, was born in 1732 (Niklastorstr. 39).

5 Schiller's Birthplace (see overleaf)

6 The statue in the Wild Man Fountain depicts the legendary founder of the town of "Mars Bacchus" (Niklastorstr.).

7 The former Deaconry was built in 1698 (Niklastorstr. 21).

8 The former Beguinage, later a schoolhouse, dates from 1700-1702 (Untere Holdergasse 4).

9 When the town was expanded in the 15th century, the Haspelturm (Winch Tower) was built as the northwest corner tower of the town's defences.

10 This one-story building, which was rebuilt after 1700 on the old foundations, was a typical vintner's house in the Holdergassen (see overleaf) (Mittlere Holdergasse 16).

The building commonly known as the Salzscheuer (Salt Barn), which is now home to a microbrewery, was probably once the town's warehouse for salt storage, built in 1738 (Mittlere Holdergasse 11).

11 The sculpture depicts the house's owner, the master stonemason Christian Probst (Mittlere Holdergasse 4).

12 The former Spezialat (an ecclesiastical building) was rebuilt in 1696 and from 1754-1806 was home to the parish administration (Niklastorstr. 17).

13 The Rathmann House is home to two sculptures (Niklastorstr. 7).

14 The Jäger Oil Mill, a technological heritage memorial, documents the different processes involved in oil manufacture, using the mill machinery from 1906 which remains almost fully functional. Last Sun of the month, 2pm-5pm (and by prior arrangement), 2.00

Euro/1.00 Euro concessions, group tours 15.00 Euro (duration approx. 30 mins), Tel. +49 (0)7144/102-297 (Obere Holdergasse 2).

15 The Heininsche Hof, built in 1688, is the only known building within the town walls to have survived the fire of 1693 unscathed (Auf den Felsen 1).

16 The former Physiklat (Doctor's House) was built in 1699 (Marktstr. 53).

17 A typical reconstructed house, which according to its inscription was built in 1694 after the town fire (Marktstr. 47).

18 On the corner of his house, built in 1678, a sculpture depicts the merchant Dietrich Wunderlich (Strohgasse 14).

19 The Interim Town Hall served as such after the town fire, from 1693 to 1763 (Rathausgasse 1).

20 The Parish Administration, built in 1700, was the Spezialat (an ecclesiastical building) and deaconry from 1754 (Strohgasse 13).

21 In 1847, the Grabentor (Moat Gate) became the entrance to the newly laid Grabenstraße.

22 The Diebs- oder Malefizturm (Thieves' or Criminals' Tower) once served as a prison (Grabenstr.).

23 About half of the Rondellturm (Round Tower) is underground, giving an idea of the breadth and depth of the town's former moat (Grabenstr.).

24 The Bürgerturm (Citizens' Tower) was once one of the corner towers from the outer town walls.

25 The House of Otilie Wildermuth (1817-1877) was where the author spent her childhood (Wildermuthstr. 5).

26 The Obere Torturm (Upper Gate Tower), first recorded in 1290, was rebuilt in 1718 after the fire and the current half-timbered extension was added in 1881. Until the 19th century, it was home to the Hochwacht (signalman) and the town music director. Inside is an exhibition on the history of the town's defences and the tower itself. Open daily 11am-5pm, small entry fee on weekends, free on weekdays, group tours (see overleaf), Tel. +49 (0)7144/102-297 (Marktstr. 1).

27 St. Wendelin's Chapel, founded in 1433, is a fine example of late Gothic architecture (Marktstr. 2).

28 In the House of the Kodweiß Family, Schiller's grandfather, Georg Friedrich Kodweiß, later owner of the Goldener Löwe, was born (Marktstr. 8).

29 Until the town fire in 1693, Burgplatz was the location of the castle of the Dukes, previously Counts of Württemberg.

30 This building, built in 1534 as the Fruchtkasten (fruit store) and converted into a Zehntscheune (tax house) in 1698/1699, is now home to the District Court and Notary's Office (Strohgasse 3).

31 The former Vogtei is the birthplace of the famous lawyer Karl Georg von Wächter (1797-1880, Strohgasse 5).

32 On the round arch in the town's eastern wall, you can see the trademark symbol of the merchant Georg Ehrenreich Schroll (Marktstr. 15).

33 The arcades of the Town Hall were built in 1760-1763 and comprehensively renovated in the late 1980s (Marktstr. 23).

34 In the "Schatzhaus" (Treasure House), a collection of coins from 1340-1385 was found in 1986 (Marktstr. 32).

35 On the archway you can see the crest of the merchant Wolfgang Friedrich Renz (Marktstr. 24).

36 The Town Church is where Friedrich Schiller was baptised. Its current façade dates from after the town fire. The tower with its spiral staircase has been preserved from the Renaissance (Niklastorstr.).

37 Tobias Mayer Museum (see overleaf)

In 1835-1840 the park was built on the Schillerhöhe, with a wonderful view of the Neckar Valley. At the southern end, Johann Caspar Schiller's Orchard was planted. It includes old species of trees described by the poet's father. The Stadthalle Schillerhöhe (Concert Hall) was opened in 1957 and renovated in 2009 and modernised to the latest technical standards.

38 For Schiller's 100th birthday in 1859, the foundation stone was laid for the Schiller Memorial. It was poured from metal from seized French cannons from the Franco-Prussian War in 1870-1871 according to a design by the sculptor Ernst Friedrich Rau, and was unveiled in 1876. Ever since, Marbach primary school children have honoured the town's greatest son with flowers each year on his birthday.

39 Schiller-Nationalmuseum (National Schiller Museum) (see overleaf)

40 Literaturmuseum der Moderne (Museum of Modern Literature) (see overleaf)

In 1955, the Deutsche Literaturarchiv Marbach (DLA - German Literature Archive Marbach) was established as an extension of the Schiller-Nationalmuseum. In 1973 it received its own building and is now one of the world's most important literary institutions. Manuscripts from the estates of well known writers and scholars form the centrepiece of the collections, along with the archives of institutions and publishing houses. They are available for research and are also open to the public in the museums. The holdings create an impression of German literature and literary and cultural life in Germany from 1750 to the present 41 The city of Stuttgart's former Hydroelectric Power Plant was opened in 1900.

42 In the former Waaghäuschen (Scales House), the Oven Museum displays pieces from the Wilhelminian period to Art Nouveau. Open every 2 months, last Sun, 2pm-5pm (and by prior arrangement), entrance free, Tel. +49 (0)7141/51615, ofenzauber@gmx.de (Ludwigsburger Str. 15).

Where Schiller was born

schillerstadt marbach

The house where Tobias Mayer was born on 17th February 1723. The quarter, once home to vintners and farmers, is one of the most beautiful gems to be found within the town walls. Walking to the mathematician, cartographer and astronomer, who died as a professor in Göttingen. His small houses packed tightly together. Most are built opposite their barns, which today are almost all used as houses. On the houses themselves, you can often still see the vines whose grapes were pressed into the so-called "Haustunk" (house tipple). At the end of Untere Holdergasse, the site of these kitchen gardens, which were commonly used in medieval walled towns to grow vegetables and other cooking ingredients, probably dates back as far as the 15th century.

The "Holdergassen" Literaturmuseum (LiMo - Museum of Modern Literature) houses permanent and temporary exhibitions which were reinvented according to plans by David Chipperfield Architects. The new permanent collection houses 668 exhibits from German literary history over around 400m² with an emphasis on Swabian poetry, alongside German literature (German Literature Archive) holdings on the 18th and 19th centuries, now with more items open to the public than ever before.

The building, steeped in tradition as it towers like a castle over the Neckar, was opened in 1903. For its reopening in 2009, the historic present twentieth-century and temporary exhibitions which were reinvented according to plans by David Chipperfield Architects. The exhibition, redesigned in 2009, brings Schiller's childhood in Marbach to life, and gives an impression of what life was like in a small Württemberg town at that time. A second part of the exhibition is dedicated to the history of celebrations of Schiller, using electronic media to display information on Schiller residences and museums, as well as Schiller festivals and memorials around the world.

International reputation as a place (Schiller's Hill), Marbach holds an rare museums on Schillerhöhe (Literature Archive) and the Deutsche Literaturarchiv (German Literature Archive) is closely linked to Schiller's legacy: today, with the 26th and 31st Dec), 3.00 Euro/1.50 Euro concessions, tours for groups, women or children.
